Section A - Research methods and evidence

Answer all questions.

Source A : Behaviour in Schools

'I conducted unstructured interviews with 50 school students, 25 male and 25 female. The students were of different ages and from different schools across the UK. Each interview lasted about 20 minutes and took place in a school office with a member of staff present.'

This is an extract from one boy's response:

"In my English class it's definitely the girls that behave the worst, they're always chatting and putting on make up, all my mates would agree with me. But it's unfair because they never seem to get in trouble for it. That winds me up."

(Adapted from a University student's research, 2005)

Source B : Behaviour in the Classroom

'I carried out non-participant observation in Year 8 Maths lessons at a school in Leeds. I observed four lessons, sitting at the back and making notes. Each observation lasted 45 minutes.'

This is an extract from the findings:

Boys were seen to be worse behaved than girls in the classroom. They were more likely to swear, mess about and shout out answers. Girls sat at the side of the classroom quietly and were quicker to settle to their work. They were less likely than the boys to ask the teacher for help. The boys were told off and sent out more than the girls.

(Adapted from a University student's research, 2008)

Candidates understanding of the context of the investigation is limited. Candidates analyse and evaluate their choices of methods and evidence in a limited way. There are likely to be some errors of spelling, punctuation and grammar of which some may be noticeable and intrusive. Typically a 1-2 mark answer will refer to only one relevant method and sample or piece of evidence. A 3-4 mark answer will typically refer to one relevant primary method and sample and one relevant piece of secondary evidence. Typically answers will make little reference to the specific area of investigation. Typically there will be few reasons provided for their choice of methods and evidence. Candidates are likely to describe the research process rather than justify and evaluate their methodological decisions. Level 2 [5-8 marks] Candidates reveal a basic knowledge of appropriate research methods and evidence. Candidates understanding of the context of the investigation is basic. Candidates analyse and evaluate their choices of methods and evidence in a basic way. There will be some errors of spelling, punctuation and grammar, but these are unlikely to be intrusive or obscure meaning. Typically a 5-6 mark answer will refer to two relevant primary methods and samples and one relevant piece of evidence. Typically a 7-8 mark answer will do the former, but is also likely to give some additional information i.e. using sociological terms to describe some choice of samples (i.e. stratified by age and gender) ; giving some extra methodological details (i.e. unstructured interview rather than just interview).

Section A - Research methods and evidence
Question Number	Answer	Max Mark
5 cont'd	Typically answers will make some reference to the specific area of investigation. Typically candidates will provide some reasons for their choice of methods and evidence. This will go beyond description of the research process. Sociological understanding will be evident although candidates may not use sociological terminology and concepts. Some candidates will deal with less than the required number of methods/evidence well, whilst others will deal with the required amount but with less success. If only one relevant method/piece of evidence is justified/evaluated (although more than one will typically be described) score a maximum 6 marks. Level 3 [9-12 marks] Candidates reveal a good knowledge of appropriate research methods and evidence. Candidates understanding of the context of the investigation is good. Candidates analyse and evaluate their choices of methods and evidence in a good way. Complex ideas have been expressed clearly and fluently using a style of writing appropriate to the subject matter. There may be few, if any, errors of spelling, punctuation and grammar. Typically a 9 mark answer will give an almost full description of the selected methods and evidence – additional information needed for all methods and evidence, but this does not need to be on both sampling and method. Typically a 12 mark answer will give additional information for both primary methods and evidence i.e. a full response. This needs to be on both sampling and method. Typically answers will make frequent reference to both the specific area of investigation and to the particular aims needed by a researcher to successfully investigate the hypothesis. Typically candidates will use sociological terminology and concepts within this level. Expect reference to such terms as quantitative/qualitative data and why this is required. Similarly, expect reference and discussion of such terms as bias, representativeness, validity etc. Candidates must justify/evaluate 2 relevant methods and a piece of evidence to score within this level and these must be discussed within the specific context of the question – a general justification for the use of a method should not be placed in the top level, however good it may be.	[12]
