General Marking Guidance

- All candidates must receive the same treatment. Examiners must mark the last candidate in exactly the same way as they mark the first.
- Mark schemes should be applied positively. Candidates must be rewarded for what they have shown they can do rather than penalised for omissions.
- Examiners should mark according to the mark scheme - not according to their perception of where the grade boundaries may lie.
- All the marks on the mark scheme are designed to be awarded. Examiners should always award full marks if deserved, i.e. if the answer matches the mark scheme. Examiners should also be prepared to award zero marks if the candidate's response is not worthy of credit according to the mark scheme.
- Where some judgement is required, mark schemes will provide the principles by which marks will be awarded and exemplification/indicative content will not be exhaustive.
- When examiners are in doubt regarding the application of the mark scheme to a candidate's response, a senior examiner must be consulted before a mark is given.
- Crossed out work should be marked unless the candidate has replaced it with an alternative response.
- Plans in the lined response area of the question paper/answer booklet should not be marked unless no other response to the question has been provided. This applies whether the plan is crossed out or not.

Specific Marking Guidance

When deciding how to reward an answer, examiners should consult both the indicative content and the associated marking grid(s). When using a levels-based mark scheme, the 'best fit' approach should be used.

- Examiners should first decide which descriptor most closely matches the answer and place it in that level.
- The mark awarded within the level will be decided based on the quality of the answer and will be modified according to how securely all bullet points are displayed at that level.
- Indicative content is exactly that – they are factual points that candidates are likely to use to construct their answer.
- It is possible for an answer to be constructed without mentioning some or all of these points, as long as they provide alternative responses to the indicative content that fulfils the requirements of the question. It is the examiner's responsibility to apply their professional judgement to the candidate's response in determining if the answer fulfils the requirements of the question.

Placing a mark within a level

- Examiners should first decide which descriptor most closely matches the answer and place it in that level. The mark awarded within the level will be decided based on the quality of the answer and will be modified according to how securely all bullet points are displayed at that level.
- In cases of uneven performance, the points above will still apply. Candidates will be placed in the level that best describes their answer according to the descriptors in that level. Marks will be awarded towards the top or bottom of that level depending on how they have evidenced each of the descriptor bullet points.
- If the candidate's answer meets the requirements fully, markers should be prepared to award full marks within the level. The top mark in the level is used for work that is as good as can realistically be expected within that level.

Question Number	AO1 Read and understand a variety of texts, selecting and interpreting information, ideas and perspectives.	Mark
2	One mark for any one of the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• behaves differently (when there are others around)</li><li>• fusses</li><li>• gets nervy</li><li>• becomes loud</li><li>• becomes silly</li><li>• becomes hostile</li><li>• may play the fool (like children do)</li></ul>	(1)

Question Number	Answer	Mark
3	Reward responses that demonstrate how the writer presents his experiences of looking after Willy, the goose. Responses may include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• the initial sentence suggests how caring the writer was: 'warm cage', 'plenty to eat'</li> <li>• the writer uses the verb 'snuggled', to suggest that Willy feels safe and comfortable</li> <li>• the description of how he develops, 'doubled in size', tells the reader how well he is being looked after</li> <li>• the references to time, '10 days', 'within a month', show how quickly he develops</li> <li>• the sensations the writer could feel when holding Willy, 'pulsing heart', 'warm body', enable the reader to understand what it felt like to hold a living creature</li> <li>• Willy's response to his name, 'a little caw', shows the reader that Willy recognises the writer and this is quite endearing/charming</li> <li>• the writer's day is 'brightened in unexpected ways', which suggests to the reader that looking after Willy is enjoyable and entertaining. The contrast between 'brightened' and 'unexpected' highlights the impact Willy has on the writer</li> <li>• the use of listing to describe Willy's activities while in the horse trough, 'climb in and splash, diving, beating his wings', creates a visual picture of his enjoyment</li> <li>• another list is used to present how protective Willy is: 'lingered, working his beak, sniffing, lowering his head and lengthening his neck if another goose came near, possessive of me'</li> <li>• the luxurious metaphorical description of the feathers, 'a pillow of warmth', helps the readers to imagine the experience</li> <li>• 'he emitted a squawk of recognition', 'flew to me': this shows Willy's attachment to the writer and emphasises to the reader that there is a connection</li> <li>• listing is used again to describe the sounds Willy makes: 'the caw of contentment, the shriek, the harsh squawk, the hiss, and loudest of all the trumpeting'. This shows how noisy Willy is. The onomatopoeic words, 'caw', 'shriek', 'squawk', 'hiss', 'trumpeting', create a vivid impression of the range and intensity of the noises</li> <li>• the use of a tricolon to describe Willy's cleaning ritual, 'preening, cleaning and ordering', together with the explanation of how geese use water, 'bathe rather than swim', gives a clear impression that they are clean birds</li> </ul>

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Willy's apparent devotion/attachment and the writer's reliance on the relationship is shown in 'a fixture', 'a certainty' and how helpful this relationship is to the writer: 'he was a consolation'</li><li>• the simile 'as true as a compass point' emphasises how the writer perceives Willy's loyalty</li><li>• the metaphor, 'a graceful ornament', shows how beautiful the writer thinks Willy is. This is emphasised by the adjectives 'marble' and 'marble-like', which suggest he is like a sculpture/artwork</li><li>• the evocative description of geese at night, 'motionless, luminous shapes', 'brilliance, glowing', emphasises their beauty</li><li>• the use of listing to capture the individuality of Willy, 'distinctive, intelligent, resourceful, congenial, loyal, self-sufficient', which emphasises how fascinated the writer is by Willy's behaviour</li><li>• the final paragraph suggests that the relationship has hidden aspects: 'privileged to know', 'no-one knows'.</li></ul>	(10)
